

Empowering Pricing Teams in Building Products

Elevate Pricing from Reactive to Strategic

In building products manufacturing, pricing is more than just a cost calculation—it's a strategic engine that drives profitability, competitiveness, and long-term growth. Yet, pricing teams often operate in the background, reacting to volatile costs, evolving customer expectations, and intense competition. High-stakes pricing decisions are made with speed and precision. But legacy systems, disconnected data, and manual workflows hold your pricing team back.

Pricefx helps transform pricing into a strategic advantage. With real-time control, automation, and AI-driven insights, your pricing team gains the power to increase margins, strengthen financial performance, and support business-wide success.

Overcome Challenges with Confidence

Building products manufacturers face relentless internal and external pressures that demand a smarter, data-driven approach to pricing. Without the right strategy, businesses risk margin erosion, inefficiency, and lost revenue.

External Challenges

- Unpredictable costs and supply chain disruption
- Pricing pressure via distributors & direct channels
- Changing customer needs and project complexity
- Uncertainty impacting materials, labor, & transport

Internal Challenges

- Fragmented pricing processes across categories
- Manual workflows, frequent updates, siloed data
- Misaligned pricing, sales, and finance strategies
- Critical price setting for customized products
- Limited visibility into cost and profit drivers
